

Last week, Thursday 7th December, the Parent Council met for the second time this year. The parent council meets half termly to look at standards across the school. The meetings are learning orientated and focus on school data for different groups and outcomes for pupils.

The last meeting focused on children working at Greater Depth (children working at higher than the expected level for their age). The school have now had a chance to embed the new curriculum and the higher expectations that it brought with it. They're now looking beyond just getting pupils to meet expectations and focusing on getting as many pupils as possible into the Greater Depth (exceeding expectations) category. The school's aim is to have at least 35% of each Year Group working at this level at the end of each year. Greater Depth is not really about learning jumping ahead in the curriculum, but about being able to apply the skills and knowledge that have been learnt in many different contexts and situations.

In order to see the impact of what the school has been doing, the Parent Council broke into three groups. Some of the representatives looked at school data, others at books and some parents did a learning walk around the school. This enabled the group to triangulate the data. Standards across the school are high and the expectations challenge the more able children.

Also discussed were school trips. The school took the parent council through the termly topic areas applicable to each year group and the associated school trips and visitors planned. It was agreed that a parent council working party would support the school with identifying local suggestions that parents were familiar with for trips that support these topic areas.

If you would like to find out more about our meetings the parent council minutes are now published in full on the school website.

Kind regards
The Davies Lane Parent Council

Well done to all of the reception children and teachers for preparing a traditional nativity with a modern twist. We hope all parents enjoyed the performance as much as we did!
